This workshop will help individuals dealing with violence and will help to prepare frontline workers to understand concepts, strategies and wellness initiatives needed to address this serious problem in First Nations Communities.

Family violence has impacted many communities resulting in forced trauma to the family, self and community. Let's make a difference and command a stop to FAMILY VIOLENCE in the lives of INDIGENOUS people. THESE WORKSHOPS ARE MUCH DIFFERENT THAN THE AVERAGE WORKSHOP ON FAMILY VIOLENCE AND ARE MOTIVATING, POWERFUL AND EMPOWERING.

WE HAVE SUCCESSFULLY TRAINED OVER 500 THOUSAND FRONTLINE WORKERS THROUGHOUT NORTH AMERICA

Violence has taken over many homes. A place where love, peace and safety are supposed to be evident, instead we see hatred, anger, fighting and even murder. This teaching on Family Violence will give you a foundation to build health and happiness in your family

In some communities shouting matches take place, emotions run wild and loved ones get hurt or even killed.

This workshop is meant to bring insight and healing to the family.

DON'T LET YOUR HOME BE A PLACE OF FEAR

All participants whether they be YOUTH, Frontline workers, Health professionals, concerned citizens, or community members will gather a huge amount of insight and inspiration from this presentation.

What is Family Violence?

Family violence is more than just beating a spouse or child. It's the abuse of power to harm or control a person who was or is a family member. Family violence includes stalking, mental or emotional abuse, physical abuse.

- Pushing or hitting
- Threats, intimidation and coercion
- Harassment
- Verbal abuse
- Economic abuse
- Sexual abuse

Special Presentation

Although family violence is often directed by men at women, anyone can be abused.

Family violence undermines the physical and mental health of its victims. Victims of family violence include children who witness abuse even if they are not directly abused. Family violence doesn't tend to go away or get better over time – it can get worse.

Abuse is wrong

No one deserves to be abused. It's against the law for anyone to physically abuse, threaten or harass another person. A person who does these things against their spouse or partner (whether married or in a common-law or same-sex relationship) can be charged with assault.

The Cycle MUST be broken. We know it's wrong, now we need to develop a plan that will bring health and wellness into our lives, our families and our communities.
